

CALLING ALL OWNERS OF SMALL TO MEDIUM SIZED BUSINESSES

Worried about how the weather is affecting business? How about in the future?

This event is for you – please save the date in your diary

WEATHER RESILIENCE FOR YOUR BUSINESS – A PROFESSIONAL APPROACH

DATE: 10th February from 6pm-9pm
VENUE: the Said Business School in Oxford.

- How did your business manage with the recent snow?
- Do you think there will be more extreme weather to come?

THIS EVENT IS FREE

It is funded by a collaboration between Oxfordshire County Council, the UK Climate Impacts Programme and Climate South East with help from the Association of British Insurers

- Bringing together SMEs from Oxfordshire and surrounding counties
- Providing real-life case studies of how SMEs are shoring up their businesses to withstand anything the climate can throw at them
- Providing insights from the Insurance Industry from Matthew Cullen of the Association of British Insurers
- Sharing expert knowledge on building resilience to weather and what to expect from climate change
- Spotting innovation Hot-spots – opportunities and profitable ways in which your business can react to extreme weather
- Reporting on a new business resilience tool, which has been trialled by a number of SMEs around Oxfordshire.

Networking opportunities will be included during the buffet and tea breaks

To register interest now visit www.bookwhen.com/ukcip

Places are strictly limited – first come first served